1. Chair’s Remarks

The Chair welcomed members and guests to the meeting and introduced the members participating in the meeting by teleconference. She thanked Professor Mark Schmuckler, Vice-Dean, Undergraduate, for acting in the capacity of the Vice-Principal, Academic and Dean, Professor William Gough, who could not attend the meeting. The Chair advised members that Ms Amorell Saunders N’Daw, Secretary to the Committee, had been seconded to the role of Senior Advisor, Equity and Diversity, on an interim basis.

2. Major modifications to the Specialist and Specialist Co-op programs in International Development Studies (BSc)

Professor Schmuckler advised the Committee that he had withdrawn the major modifications to the Specialist and Specialist Co-op programs in International Development Studies (BSc). He had recently learnt that further consultation was required within a specific academic department and that the proposal would be considered at a future meeting.

3. Major modifications to introduce a new freestanding Minor in Natural Sciences and Environmental Management (Science)

Professor Schmuckler reported that the Department of Physical and Environmental Sciences (DPES) was proposing a Minor in Natural Sciences and Environmental Management. The minor was designed to offer multidisciplinary education between the Arts and Sciences, which distinguished the program from the existing Minor in Environmental Science. In addition, the program would meet the needs of undergraduate students who had a preference to combine Major and Minor programs from varying disciplines.

A member asked whether a course on political ecology would be considered for the Minor, and Professor George Arhonditsis, Chair of DPES, remarked that a course in political ecology was not included in the Minor program offerings.

On motion duly made, seconded, and carried,

YOUR COMMITTEE APPROVED,

THAT the major modifications to introduce a new freestanding Minor in Natural Sciences and Environmental Management (Science), as described in the proposal dated December 2, 2016 and recommended by the Vice-Principal Academic and Dean, Professor William Gough, be approved effective April 1, 2017 for the academic year 2017-18.

4. Major modification to introduce enrolment requirements for the first time to the Specialist in Statistics (BSc)

Professor Schmuckler reported that the Department of Computer and Mathematical Science (CMS) was proposing to introduce enrolment requirements for the first time to the Specialist in Statistics (BSc) program. Enrolment requirements were being proposed to ensure that students had the necessary background and aptitude to be successful in the program. CMS was proposing that students with a cumulative grade point average (CGPA) of 2.5 or higher and the necessary prerequisite courses be guaranteed admission into the program. Students with a CGPA lower than 2.5 would be considered on a case by case basis, available space, or redirected to a more appropriate program (i.e. Major in Statistics). In addition, Professor Schmuckler reported that the enrolment requirements brought the program in line with the norms of other statistics specialist programs across the University.

On motion duly made, seconded, and carried,

YOUR COMMITTEE APPROVED,

THAT the major modifications to the Specialist in Statistics (BSc), as described in the proposal dated November 23, 2016 and recommended by the Vice-Principal Academic and Dean, Professor William Gough, be approved effective April 1, 2017 for the academic year 2017-18.
5. Minor Curricular Modifications, Undergraduate

Professor Schmuckler reported that ten academic units had submitted minor curricular modifications for approval, which included new courses, course changes, and modifications to curriculum that modestly changed the nature of the courses or programs.

He drew members’ attention to the documentation, which was presented in two reports and explained that the Office of the Vice-Principal, Academic and Dean, was a part of a pilot program involving a new Curriculum Manager (CM) System, which would give academic units more autonomy over curriculum changes. He advised members that the second report was produced using the existing CM.

On motion duly made, seconded, and carried,

YOUR COMMITTEE APPROVED,

THAT the minor modifications to undergraduate programs, submitted by UTSC undergraduate academic units, as described in the Undergraduate Minor Curriculum Modifications for Approval, Report 1, dated January 4, 2017, and Undergraduate Minor Curriculum Modifications for Approval, Report 2, dated January 5, 2017, and recommended by the Vice-Principal Academic and Dean, Professor William Gough, be approved effective April 1, 2017 for the academic year 2017-18.

6. Minor Curricular Modifications, Undergraduate

Professor Schmuckler presented, for information, minor curricular modifications that did not impact course and program learning outcomes or mode of delivery. The information was presented in two reports from CM.

7. 2017-18 Sessional Dates

The Chair invited Dr. Naureen Nizam, Director, Systems and Operations, in the Registrar’s Office to present the 2017-18 Sessional Dates. Dr. Nizam’s presentation included the following highlights:

- The process for establishing the 2017-18 Sessional Dates began in May 2016 when the University released its holiday schedule;
- The Registrar’s Office was responsible for developing the first draft of the sessional dates to be shared with the Office of the Vice-Principal, Academic and Dean, who then shared the dates with all Chairs and Directors in a consultative process. Taking into account input from Chairs and Directors, the Office of the Vice-Principal, Academic and Dean, approved the sessional dates;
- The Provost’s Office planned to share five years of tentative University holiday schedules with the Registrar’s Office, which would be used to coordinate future sessional dates in advance;
• Fall 2017 classes were scheduled to begin after the Labour Day holiday; and
• Sunday exams were included for Fall 2017 sessional dates due to timing and space constraints. If exams were scheduled on Sundays, the exams would be scheduled at noon or late afternoon.

A member commented on an observation that study breaks appeared to be getting shorter. Dr. Curtis Cole, Registrar & Assistant Dean, Enrolment Management, explained that in order to get twelve teaching weeks into a semester the study break was often affected, and that effort was made to minimize scheduling and timing conflicts that could negatively impact students’ performance (e.g. scheduling first year Chemistry, Biology and Calculus on the same day).

A member commented that a web search for UTSC sessional dates resulted in 2015-16 sessional dates. Dr. Nizam reported that she would ask Information and Instructional Technology Services (IITS) to deactivate the page.

A member asked why it was common for sessions to begin on weekdays other than Mondays. Dr. Nizam explained that courses required twelve teaching weeks and beginning a semester on a Monday could result in the need for makeup dates (e.g. one week of Monday classes missed due to Thanksgiving).

A member asked whether the Registrar’s Office planned to share five years of tentative sessional dates with the UTSC community. Dr. Nizam replied that further conversations were necessary to determine how and to whom the information would be disseminated.

A member commented that students were open to beginning classes earlier each session to allow for a longer study break, and Dr. Nizam thanked the member for their suggestion and made known that the suggestion would be considered.

8. Assessors’ Reports

There were no Assessors’ Reports.

The report of the previous meeting was approved.

10. Business Arising from the Report of the Previous Meeting
